Meet the Officers of the School Resource Team

SUMMARY: Eugene Police Department has a six member team available as resources to students and parents alike.

Eugene Police Department recognizes that students are a community's future and that schools have special policing needs. Through a partnership with Eugene Bethel and 4J School Districts officers maintain a presence and serve as a part of the school community. Each officer is assigned to a specific high school and its respective feeder schools.

By placing officers in schools, they provide positive role models in the schools, mentor young adults and assist them in making positive choices about their future. Officers are also available to meet with parents, or area residents to troubleshoot or answer questions about juvenile problems or crimes.

The unit is led by Sergeant Carl Stubbs who brings his extensive background in policing and enthusiasm and concern for the youth of Eugene to the position. Sergeant Stubbs began his career in law enforcement in 1998 and has held many positions throughout his career that have prepared him for this role including overseeing the Eugene Police Department's Critical Incident Response Team.
